Donor 3846
Interview Notes

Donor 3846 immediately comes across as a sweet, friendly, young man who is full of charisma. He has a closely cut hairstyle, big sea-green eyes, and a chiseled chin. He laughingly told me that he tans very well. Donor 3846 gave me his full attention throughout the interview and expressed his pleasure in meeting me. We talked at length about his finance career goals and how becoming a key player in his family's insurance business is definitely what he plans on accomplishing in the next few years when he finishes a degree in finance. When I asked him what he enjoys doing and where he sees himself flourishing, he related that he is an amazing host, and a person who loves to organize social events and get people together. He also said that he was really good at telling jokes. This donor strikes me as someone who has a very full social calendar, most likely has a lot of friends, and thrives on being the center of attention.

He is the middle child in his family and remarked that he had some difficulties adjusting to this role when he was a younger person. He framed these difficulties around being the middle child with a very successful older brother, and the baby of the family being also the only girl. His siblings seem to be incredibly successful, and his older brother has become entrenched in the family business at a very young age.

He lives in the Bay Area with close friends from high school. He frequents local museums, enjoys playing Frisbee and football at the beach, and hanging out in San Francisco with his sister and friends.
