Donor # 3920
Interview Notes

Donor 3290 has a quick wit and a gentle smile. He has a healthy and fit build, with a sturdy body frame. His skin was extremely clear and creamy, with very few noticeable blemishes or freckles. He was wearing tailored dark blue jeans, a comfortable, yet vibrant black cotton t-shirt and polished leather loafers. His appearance gave insight to the fact that he is a very detail-oriented and responsible type of guy.

Donor 3920 comes from a long line of energetic and outdoorsy family members. When he was younger he and his brother would head off to the family cabin and, depending on the season, would delve into whatever nature had to offer. The disadvantage of this lifestyle, however, was continuous exposure to the sun. The donor explained that the sun exposure was a definite contributing factor to the skin cancer found in his family.

Book reading and movie watching are two activities that donor 3920 finds relaxing and enjoyable. As a child he said that “he grew up with [his] nose buried in a book.” Even a casual glance at his donor narrative reveals his graceful, articulate abilities.

Recently donor 3920 traded in books and movies for fatherhood. He currently has two young sons that require all of his love and attention. He absolutely glowed when speaking about his children, stating (and we quote), that his four-year-old is “cute as all hell.” By working from home, he is able to give his children first priority.

Overall, I would describe donor 3920 as an attentive and kind man.
