DONOR NARRATIVE: Donor 4014

Describe your personality (introvert, extrovert, funny, serious, goal-oriented, curious, etc.).

I am a very intelligent individual with a voracious appetite for learning. Thankfully, I learn quickly, so I am able to have a social life on top of that. I consider myself both an extrovert and an introvert: in a social interaction I am always very prominent and I enjoy that, but I also spend a lot of time reading a good book or spending a night relaxing by myself. I used to read a ton, now, unfortunately I am limited by my available time or I would read two or three full length books a week (something I did when I was younger). I am rarely serious, and I have a decent enough sense of humor to complement this trait. This is very present when I am around my friends. I am a passionate individual with opinions about nearly everything, and I love to debate. Above all, people describe me as a very real person, no facades, just me.

What are your special interests and talents?

I love music, and played the piano since I was in kindergarten. I have dabbled in nearly every genre, from classical to electronic, and right now I am into jazz and jam music. I have composed pieces, and while I don't want to make music a career, it is an integral part of me that I will carry forever. I am also very physical. I play all kinds of sports, my favorite being basketball. When I practice I am a decent player, though I've never had a great jump shot. I would say another less tangible talent is that I am a great teacher/leader. I like that too, not only because I get to teach, but also because I rarely think the person in charge is doing their job as well as I would.

How would you describe your enjoyment of and skills in the following areas:

math: I love math. It is and always has been my best subject. I learn it very quickly with minimal instruction, and am always happy to do it. Any application of math is also good by me, whether in the sciences or in business.

mechanical: I also really enjoy working with my hands. I worked as an intern carpenter/construction worker for a year before doing some independent work, and enjoyed just about all of it. I take great pride in my work, which is why it typically looks so good.

athletic: I've always been athletic since I was a little kid. I played baseball, basketball, and soccer as I grew up. I also golf every now and then, and am athletic enough to pick up other sports and at least be able to have fun in them. Although I am rarely the best player on the team, I am a great team player and have good skills, so my team as a whole benefits from my presence.

musical, artistic, creative: I love music and playing music. Piano is my main instrument, but I play a little guitar and saxophone, just for fun. Despite that I am not all that creative, and I have a very difficult time thinking outside the box. I am too rational I think. I am not much of an artist, and other than the piano, my creative side is slightly lacking.

language (what languages do you speak?): Only Spanish, but I would like to learn others.

What are your goals and ambitions in life?

Honestly, at this point in my life they are very vague. I aim to be very well off financially, how I don't know. I want to leave a lasting legacy on the world, again, I don't know how. I know I have big plans, I am just not sure about what specifically they are.

Why do you want to be a sperm donor?

If I can help someone with no cost to me, how can I say no to that?

Did you choose to be an identity-release donor? Yes. Why did you make this choice?

I want my offspring to have the best life possible, and to know and accept themselves. If that requires knowing my identity, then so be it. The choice should be up to the child whether or not they know my identity, not up to me.

What message would you like us to pass on to the people who are getting your sperm?

Good luck, and take excellent care of your child.
