AGREEMENT FOR INTERNATIONAL SHIPPING

I _____ am shipping vials internationally that have been purchased from or stored at The Sperm Bank of California (TSBC). I understand that the charge for shipping and handling will be determined by TSBC, that payment is required prior to shipment, and that this charge will include the return shipping of the liquid nitrogen vapor tank.

I understand that TSBC will notify me of my shipment's expected arrival date at customs, but that I am fully responsible for clearing this shipment from customs and for paying all taxes and duties that customs may require.

I understand that the semen samples will be shipped in a liquid nitrogen vapor tank, which will keep the vials frozen and viable for seven days from the expected arrival date at customs. To keep the samples viable for longer than seven days from arrival, I will have to arrange to have the tank refilled with liquid nitrogen, or to have the vials moved to a liquid nitrogen storage facility.

I understand that I am fully responsible for the liquid nitrogen vapor tank from the time it is delivered to me until it is returned to TSBC, and that if the tank is returned to TSBC late, I will be held financially responsible for late fees. I understand that if the tank is lost or is returned to TSBC in damaged condition, I will be financially responsible for the full $1100 value of the tank.

I understand that TSBC is not responsible for any damage to the semen samples that occurs during the transfer, transport, or shipping process. I understand that TSBC is not responsible if I am unable to use the semen vials due to any regulatory issue in my country that may be currently in force or may be enacted after the vials have shipped.

I understand that shipments are non-refundable and that this includes the costs of the vials as well as the shipping fees and any tank charges that may apply. In signing this document, I agree that I have read and understood all the information stated above and that I understand it applies to all my subsequent international shipments.
