Donor 3559 Interview Notes

Donor 3559 is a confident, goal-oriented young man. He's currently pursuing a degree in legal studies with firm plans to attend Harvard Law School to one day fulfill his dream of becoming a corporate lawyer. He is also a very accomplished athlete, having played football, basketball, and run track in high school. Boxing is the current focus of Donor 3559's athletic aspirations. He has a disciplined daily workout and enjoys the physical challenges and competition inherent in the sport. He plans to advance to national boxing competitions in the coming years in addition to someday making the Olympic boxing team. Despite having to juggle rigorous academics, athletics, and a supervisory job in the food industry, Donor 3559 is teeming with motivation. His focus and satisfaction with his daily routine prove he is truly living life to its fullest.

Donor 3559 was born in California, but has deep family roots in Mexico and Columbia. His grandparents own and maintain a 400 acre farm and ranch in Mexico, and the property has been in the family for many generations. When speaking of visiting his grandparents and cousins at the family ranch, Donor 3559's eyes sparkle with pride and enthusiasm. I could tell he thought very highly of his elders and the line of work so intertwined with his own heritage. Donor 3559 is quite close to his parents and his three sisters. As a child, he loved to help his father tinker on various projects, especially fixing and maintaining cars. He fondly remembers his mother cooking authentic Mexican food for the whole family. His sisters all have varied interests ranging from running to mechanical engineering to playing the violin. Donor 3559 is particularly close to his second sister, who has always looked up to him as her protective "big brother."

Donor 3559 is a tall man with broad shoulders and warm brown skin. His eyes are the color of dark chocolate and are framed by dark eyelashes. His smile is bright and genuine. His masculine presence is assertive, yet pleasantly so. His hands are wide and strong, easily capable of lifting weights or helping his grandparents on the family's land. Overall, I would say Donor 3559 is a very passionate individual who has both the discipline and the drive to accomplish his many dreams.
