Donor 3971 Interview Notes

I felt immediately at ease around Donor 3971. He is soft-spoken but personable and his quiet self-confidence radiates from him in his interactions. His soft but perceptive eyes take in everything that happens and although he doesn't comment on everything, when he does it is spot-on. I was not surprised to learn that Donor 3971 is close with his family. He has nothing but glowing things to say about his relatives, his mother in particular. He seems to take his job as an older brother seriously. We laughed about how fast teenagers grow up but he became earnest when he spoke in depth about his younger sister's interests and her adjustment to high school.

Donor 3971 is a design student and it shows. He is well-groomed and attractive without coming across as finicky or over-dressed. He seems like someone who would be comfortable and graceful in any environment or context. His poise was not intimidating, however, and he managed to balance his confidence with a down-to-earth quality that few master.

Donor 3971 at first comes across as socially adept and confident, but his intelligence is also one of the things I find most engaging about him. As his confidence is not cocky his breadth of knowledge is not immediately apparent. He is well-versed in urbanism as well as his current focus of design and fashion- he uses his talents in his work on films. When he discusses the things he is passionate about his blue eyes sparkle and he gains an innocent quality in his earnestness.
